Exercise #1
Community Needs Assessment for Library

In this individual or small group exercise you will outline how to do a community needs assessment for your library.

1. What's unique about your community? Consider demographics, location, schools, businesses, community groups, events/celebrations, recreational interests.

2. Who would you contact to find out more about your communities needs?

3. What methods would you use to do your community needs assessment?

4. How would you share the results and who would you contact to share the results?

Library Collection Management 101 Spring 2006 - This material has been created by Julie Italiano for the Infopeople Project [infopeople.org], supported by the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act, administered in California by the State Librarian. Any use of this material should credit the author and funding source.