

Links for projects and libraries referred to in the Infopeople (<http://infopeople.org>) webinar “Libraries and Economic Recovery: Supporting Entrepreneurs,” presented by George Needham and Joan Frye Williams, <http://georgeandjoan.com> on November 16, 2011. These links are presented in the order in which they were discussed in the webinar.

- “The For-Benefit Enterprise,” by Heerad Sabeti. (Harvard Business Review, November 2011) <http://hbr.org/2011/11/the-for-benefit-enterprise/ar/1>
- Arlington Heights Memorial Library Business Blog <http://ahml.info/research/business/blog>
- Douglas County, Colorado, Library Community Reference Project <http://douglascountylibraries.org/content/CommunityReferenceProject-DCL>
- The concept of “ing the thing” is taken from The Experience Economy, Updated Edition by Joseph Pine and James Gilmore. (Harvard Business Press, 2011). <http://www.amazon.com/gp/sitbv3/reader/?asin=1422161978>
- “Economic Gardening with Public Libraries,” by Christine Hamilton-Pennell <http://tinyurl.com/83fo3qh>
- Summer of Smart <http://www.summerofsmart.org>
- “Making Space for Entrepreneurs and Independent Workers” ALA Editions Workshop, December 1, 2011, taught by Meg Gerritsen Knodl <http://www.alastore.ala.org/detail.aspx?ID=3568>
- Kentucky Small Business Development Center <http://ksbdc.org/>
- Johnson County (Kansas) Library Gov Fest <http://tinyurl.com/7e3bjwa>

All links checked on November 14, 2011.

This material has been created by Joan Frye Williams and George Needham for the Infopeople Project [infopeople.org], supported by the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act, administered in California by the State Librarian. Any use of this material should credit the authors and funding source