

Q & A from: Storing and Managing Digital Collections

!Michelle Reeder(reeder.michelle@gmail.com) - 12:38

Q: Maybe I misunderstood re "on-your-own programming" if using CONTENTdm, wouldn't the metadata you've supplied be able to provide adequate access

Priority: N/A!

!Kevin Miller(kevin.miller3@pepperdine.edu) - 12:43

Q: Hi Jake, I apologize if this is slightly off-topic: Do you have any recommendations for a PDF to PDF/A conversion program/service/workflow?

Priority: N/A!

!Stanley Strauss(stanley@infopeople.org) - 12:44

Q: from Nancy Spaid to All Participants:

We have a scanner that produces several different TIFF formats, such as TIFFRAW and TIFFJPG. I assume some of these have some compression, right? Is it best to scan to TIFFRAW format?

Priority: N/A!

!Conni O'Connor(connioconnor@hotmail.com) - 12:44

Q: So you don't recommend using BluRay disks as durable storage? We are financially limited and are thinking of using a 12T Thunderbolt hard drive and 2 copies of Blu Ray Disks.

Priority: N/A!

!Stanley Strauss(stanley@infopeople.org) - 12:47

Q: from Rukshana Singh to All Participants:

Can the Online Archive of California or USC's Digital Library be thought of as trusted digital repositories or are they simple vehicles for user access?

Priority: N/A!